Current Goings-On

The Art of Patterns

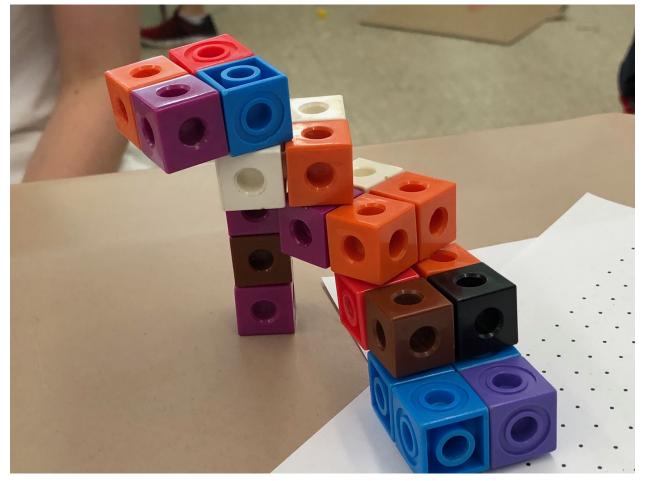

Following a study of Sol Levitt sculptures, gr. 6 students begin to build their own sculptures that are based on patterns. They will need to write instructions on how to accurately build them using the correct math vocabulary.

Juneteenth

From the Article: Juneteenth is the oldest known celebration commemorating the ending of slavery in the United States. Dating back to 1865, it was on June 19th that the Union soldiers, led by Major General Gordon Granger, landed at Galveston, Texas with news that the war had ended and that the enslaved were now free.

Tell Us About Your Day: The Significance of the Closing Circle

Building relationships and understanding of each others' needs and strengths fosters inclusivity and self worth.

Tinkertime

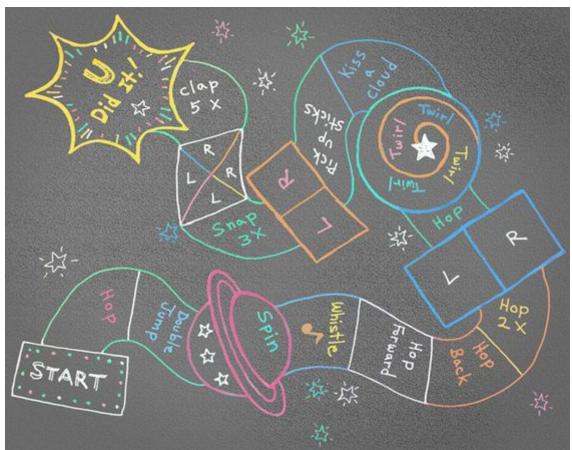

Make Your Own One-String Bag

Are you trying to reduce your dependence on plastic? Do you feel guilty every time you take a plastic produce bag at the supermarket? Do you want to teach your kids how to be stewards of the earth, and a practical skill like sewing at the same time? Make these bags!

Clever Ways to Make Hopscotch

Are you wondering what kind of hopscotch game youre class would like to play? Why not brainstorm with them?

Things to Do

Recycle Your Old Dried-out Plastic Markers

Have your kids save the world by sorting through your markers, finding the duds, and sending them back to Crayola for recycling!

I have a box for old markers at Pierce and Heath Makerspaces (Heath's box will appear Wednesday). Donate and I will return them to Crayola!

Summer Explorations for Youth at Harvard
