To Whom it May Concern,

Iris Feldman, former Lawrence school librarian recently passed away. For more than three decades she gave her heart and soul to the students and teachers of Lawrence. Her commitment and dedication was unsurpassed. Under her leadership, the library was a warm and welcoming place. Iris did everything with a smile. Not only was she sweet, kind and enthusiastic, she was knowledgeable, always up to date on the latest award winning books, always able to recommend 'just the right book' for each student or teacher. Iris was an inspiration to many. She made lasting connections with former students and colleagues. It would be a fitting tribute to have the Lawrence School Library named after Iris to honor her exceptional contributions to Lawrence School.

Please let me know what else is necessary to facilitate this process. I can provide many recommendations from colleagues to support this request.

Thank you,
